

ABSTRACT

A siliconized surgical needle is provided which requires significantly less force to effect tissue penetration than a standard siliconized needle.